Anti-Semitism And The University:

Panel Discusses Prejudice

"Anti-Semitism and the University", the controversial article written recently in the Daily by Robert Carswell, will be the topic of a discussion in the Walter M. Stewart Room at 1 pm, held under the auspices of the Hillel Foundation.

The discussion will encompass several varied viewpoints on the subject, with the panelists from different ethnic groups on campus, to discuss the matter at hand. They are Robert Carswell, Maria Bartok, Irwin Cotler and Gordon Echenberg.

Carswell, in third year Law, the author of the article, is the immediate Past President of the Students' Society and is presently a member of the Editorial Board of the Daily.

Other Panelists

Miss Bartok, M.A. 1, was the President of Newman House last year. Cotler, in second year Law, is Editor-in-Chief of the Daily and is a past President of the Debating Union.

Echenberg, also in second year Law, is President of the Students' Society, and has been chosen recently to debate for McGill in the United Kingdom next fall.

Chairman of the discussion will be Howard Golden, B.A. 3, an honours Philosophy and Political Science student, who is President of the McGill Hillel Foundation. All are welcome and urged to attend.

Presidential Candidate Brodhead Withdraws

by MICHAEL BLAU

Tim Brodhead, SEC presidential candidate, withdrew his nomination papers yesterday. In an interview last night he issued the following statement:

"After a good deal of thought, I have decided to withdraw as a candidate from the elections to the position of President of the Students' Society. My initial reason for running was that I felt it to be vital that elections to such an important office be in fact real elections and not simply lop-sided contests or acclamations".

"Without a real election, people do not take interest, nor do they feel responsible for the results and this of course feeds McGill's celebrated apathy. Capable people, of whom there are many on the campus, do not feel called upon to exert their energies in areas of student government, and, as a result, potential leadership fails to develop itself.

"I felt that I was capable of doing a good job, and that, in particular, I could direct attention to certain relatively neglected areas — relations with our sister university on the other side of the mountain, and the lamentable lack of attention paid to the foreign students at McGill, being but two examples.

Responsibilities

"However, and despite the many gratifying assurances of support that I have received from so many people, I have come to the following conclusion: the responsibilities of the President of the Students' Society are, like the bulk of an iceberg, largely invisible. What is required is not only the ability of an ambassador but also the experience of an administrator. I believe that I have the ability, but I have hitherto lacked the necessary experience; with this in mind, I have decided to withdraw from the election, and I would urge support for the candidate having the necessary qualifications".

David Krause, one of the two remaining candidates, when shown Brodhead's statement said that,

"Having read Brodhead's statement concerning his withdrawal from the forthcoming election, I can only say that I am in this race to win. I believe sincerely in my platform, and, if elected, I will direct all my efforts to carrying out my program successfully. We are entering a new era in the University and it is time to return the student government into the hands of the majority."

Sonny Gordon, the other presidential candidate, expressed his regret over the resignation. Thus the SEC presidential race has been reduced to two candidates, Sonny Gordon and David Krause.

Vice-President

Meanwhile the three vice-presidential candidates put forth a brief summary of their platform.

Paul Bannerman, B.A. 3, said that the "Students should realize that the main task facing the next President of the Union will be supervising the final plans for the new student centre. In order that maximum use may be made of the new building as soon as the move is carried out I feel that all extra-curricular activities should be expanded in the coming school year.

"Naturally the Union, center of all student activities, will play a central role in such a program.

"SONNY" GORDON

Having served on the Union Board of Managers and thus taken an active part in the administration of the Union, I feel I have the necessary experience to adapt the Old Union to these changing conditions."

The second candidate for the vice-presidency, Bill Jones, B.Eng. 4, said that "With the existing chaos over the proposed move to the new Student Centre in 1964 we must at the same time be equally conscious of the coming year in student affairs.

"A move to heighten and consolidate the position of the Union in the Students' Society is necessary to guarantee future success in our new location. To this end a strong updating of Union management and lines of organization is necessary to prepare those who will accomplish this difficult transition."

Leger

The third candidate Laurie Leger, B.A. 3, in outlining his program said that, "The next year will be a crucial one for both the SEC and the Union because of the tremendous amount of planning which must be done before the move to the New Union is made. Therefore I urge a careful consideration of all candidates before voting. This election, probably more than any previous one, will affect each and every student at this University.

"I think that I am qualified for the Vice-Presidency because of my work in an executive capacity in the past two years — with the SEC Awards Banquet in 1962 and of course as Producer of the Red and White Revue this year."

The Proposed Amendments

The following motions will be presented as amendments to the Students' Society Constitution at an open meeting to be held on Thursday, February 28, 1 pm in the Union.

(1) That Article VII read as follows:
In the case of the following positions:

- (i) Members of the Students' Executive Council
- (ii) Chairman of MCWA
- (iii) Chairman of Winter Carnival Committee
- (iv) Chairman of the McGill Students' Union Board of Managers
- (v) President of the Scarlet Key Society
- (vi) President of the Red Wing Society
- (vii) President of the Debating Union
- (viii) Editor-in-Chief of the McGill Annual
- (ix) Producer of the Red and White Revue
- (x) Members of the Managing Board of the McGill Daily
- (xi) President of the International Students' Association
- (xii) Station-Manager of Radio McGill
- (xiii) Chairman of the Education Committee

The following rules of eligibility shall apply:
(a) any student repeating an academic year is ineligible to be nominated for or appointed to any of the above offices.

(b) any student who had in the year previous to his nomination for or appointment to any of the above offices an academic average of less than 65%, or any student who is conditional, must, before he is nominated or appointed to any of the above offices, tender to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Students' Society the written authorization of the Dean, or in his absence the Acting Dean of the faculty in which he is enrolled. In the first year of Law, Medicine, Graduate Studies and Research, Divinity or Music, the Dean or Acting Dean shall check the student's undergraduate record.

(c) any student holding any of the above offices must resign if he has failed his academic year.

(d) students elected or appointed to these positions shall hold office subject to the same regulations under which they took office, with the exception that the minimum academic requirement in the case of holding office be 60%.

(2) That Article VI (2) (g) shall read: "The President of the International Students' Association." and that Article VI (2) (g) shall become Article VI (2) (h), that Article VI (2) (h) shall become Article VI (2) (i), and that Article VI (2) (i) shall become Article VI (2) (j).

Cabinet System On Trial

As each day passes Canada is plunged more and more deeply into what may well be its most important election campaign in the last three decades. Its outcome may determine, among other questions, the future of our system of political parties. It will almost certainly effect Canada's position in NATO, her relations with the European Common Market, her foreign trade policy in this age of increasing interdependence, and a host of equally important, if less spectacular, domestic questions.

With all these matters at stake, the campaign and the stated policies of the four parties may become even more confusing than they are now; contradictions and contradictory reconciliations of earlier contradictions are even now filling the newspapers and journals. In the light of this situation the possibility of a straight party line vote becomes more and more likely. Confused by an ever-changing mass of incomplete information, many people may be led to simply trusting in fate and voting as they have for the last ten, fifteen, or twenty years.

If ever there has been a year in which voters should forget party allegiances per se and vote on the basis of programs and leaders this is that year. That is not to say that everyone should switch parties, but it does mean that each voter has a vital duty to really analyze the promises being made and their likelihood of being fulfilled.

The decision of the voters in this election will also answer two other questions of the greatest historical importance, for this election will provide a test of the maturity of the Canadian electorate and, consequently, a means by which we may be permitted to decide whether or not the Cabinet system of government will endure in Canada. The Cabinet system is one which demands a mature, reasonably homogeneous, and stable electorate. Unlike the Presidential system, it cannot function properly in a minority framework. The Cabinet must have the support of a majority of the members of Parliament. If its legislative program is to be anything more than a collection of unsatisfactory, or platitudinous compromises.

There are some who feel that the rise of the Social Credit and New Democratic parties foreshadows a long period of unstable minority governments in Ottawa. We may have specific complaints about the last government, but whatever they be it is hard to deny the fact that the political chaos which has marked the last seven months was in no small measure due to the minority situation itself.

It is not unreasonable to assume that if we elect a majority government on April 8, the return to a two-party system, after this brief interlude, will be hastened. However, if April 9 finds us with another minority government, it may well be time to re-examine our entire constitutional structure. Prefer it as we may, the Canadian people must recognize that the Cabinet form of government was the product of a homogeneous people living on a small island. The Canadian people are not homogeneous, and far from being small, our 18 million citizens are spread over 3.5 million square miles of land, from Atlantic to Pacific, from Arctic to the Niagara peninsula.

Indeed it is the way of politicians to declare that every election is the most important and in the tense world of the cold war this claim has become more truth than exaggeration. However, a hard analysis of the facts must lead one to the conclusion that this is a very important election for all of us. In a very real sense the future of Canada is at stake.

Letter To The Editor

Chinese Student Asserts Democracy In Formosa

Dear Sir,

This is my first year in Canada, the impression that I have is that people are kind to me and most are intelligent. I am thankful for their kindness; and I admire their intelligence. But there is only one thing which disappoints me; that is the lack of knowledge and understanding of my country — the Republic of China.

Sometimes the country is misunderstood; things are misinterpreted. Being hurt is inevitable. As I was taught ever since childhood to yield to others, I did my best to follow that doctrine. But something happened last week, and I can no longer keep silent. I believe everyone in my position would have been upset.

Last Wednesday's Daily reported McGill's victory in the Debate with Harvard in which Joel Bell, McGill's representative, made the statements that, "Formosa has no due process of law and no elections." I felt very sad, for my country fought on the side of Democracies in World War II, took an active part in the framing of the United Nations Charter, and has since fulfilled all its obligations in the United Nations and other international bodies. It is in recognition of its sacrifices in the last war and its contributions to the cause of peace that the Republic of China is a permanent member of the Security Council. But my dear friend, Joel Bell, tells me that the Republic of China is not a Democracy.

I ask your permission to present the facts. Taiwan (Formosa), the only democratic province of the Republic of China, has due process of law and free elections. The lack of these fundamentals is a main criticism of the Communists; these are the only things which my uncles and brothers, on the Mainland under tyranny of the Communists regime, dream about; these are the only things which I want to bring to them.

1. Due Process of law:

A. Constitutional Evidence:
Article 8, 15, 16 and 24 of the Constitution of the Republic of China are all the fundamentals relating to the matter of due process of law. (Informations of the substance is available by personal contact.) Such civil rights as freedom of person, domicile, speech and religion are guaranteed by the Constitution. People have the right to work, to own property, to go where and when they please, to petition or file complaints against the government and receive indemnity if unlawfully detained or arrested. More important, such rights are implemented to the largest extent compatible with survival in the war with Communists. This clearly refutes the occasional charges that China is a police State.

Law courts include District Courts, High Courts, and the Supreme Court. In Taiwan, there are at present 12 District Courts. In April, 1956, a district court was established on Kinmoy. Last July I had the occasion of visiting there for the investigation of a criminal case.

B. Eye Witness:

There have been at least six cases before the Supreme Court concerning Articles 8, 16, and 24 of the Constitution. The Police Office and the Military Law Bureau were held to have violated the Constitution. (The Court's Reports are unfortunately not available to me in Canada, a fact which prevents me giving any citations.)

As a graduate of the Law Faculty of the National Taiwan University, a lawyer with one year's military service (from July 24 1961 to August 20, 1962) as an Assistant Prosecutor, I know that those Articles of the Constitution are being taught in the schools and are fully kept in practice.

2. Free Elections:

A. Constitutional Evidence:

- Article 17. The people shall have the right of election, recall, initiative, and referendum.
- Article 18. The people shall have the right of taking public examinations and of holding public offices.

B. Presidency:

The existing Chinese Government derives its powers from the National Assembly, which, according to the Constitution, exercises political powers on behalf of the people. The present National Assembly is composed of 1589 delegates elected on the basis of regional and vocational representation.

The second session of the National Assembly was held in Taipei, China's provisional capital in July, 1954. Delegates attending the Session totaled 1578. Chiang Kai-shek was re-elected as the President by an overwhelming majority of 1,507 votes. Hsu Fu-Lin of the Democratic Socialist Party, the only Presidential candidate, commanded only 48 votes. In July 1960 President Chiang Kai-shek was elected for a third term by 1481 votes. Delegates attending elections totaled 1509.

C. Provincial Elections:

Members of the provincial, county, municipal, borough and township assemblies are elected in their respective constituencies every three years. The Taiwan Provincial Government is responsible to the Provincial Assembly, just as are county, municipal, borough and township government to their respective assemblies. The five mayors and 16 magistrates are popularly elected for four-year terms. Of 929 county and municipal assembly members, 97 are women. In the election of January, 1961, 79.7 percent of eligible voters went to the polls. As prescribed in the Constitution, all elections are carried out by universal, equal, direct suffrage and by secret ballot.

It is not my intention to challenge the capability of Bell, for I believe he is one of the best representatives of McGill. I know he did not intend to make false statements, it is only the books that he read which misrepresented the TRUTH. I ask him to forgive me and I am trying to forget.

K'ual Lo (happiness)

ASUS To Hold Trials For Debating Tourney

The ASUS is conducting its Debating Tournament on February 20, to choose two teams to represent McGill at the Rhode Island Senior Extemporaneous Debating Tournament in March. Each team will consist of two debaters.

Anyone is eligible to enter the Elimination Tournament, to be held in the Cue Room at the Union at 7:15 pm. Paul Echenberg, Publicity Chairman of the ASUS, said that those planning to enter may do so as teams or, if entering singly, will be arbitrarily paired off.

The debaters will be given the topic ten minutes before they are scheduled to speak, and asked to uphold either affirmative or negative.

Chairman

Judy Lee, a first year Arts student, novice debater and debating judge will chair the tournament.

The judges, all lecturers at McGill, are Dr. Mathewson (English), Stan Hartt (Economics), and Dr. Irving Borwick (English).

Applicants are asked to leave their names with John at the Tuck Shop, in the ASUS Pigeon-hole. This would enable Miss Lee to draw up a tentative debating schedule.

Professor William Westley, Chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, will speak today at 1 pm on "Criminology: Crime and Police."

This meeting, held in Room 330 of the Arts Building, is the third of four luncheon discussions sponsored by the Sociology and Anthropology Society. The series, entitled "Prospects and Progress in Research," has been planned by the Society to acquaint students with research procedures in Sociology and Anthropology currently in use in Canada.

At the final discussion next Tuesday, Dr. Norman Chance will discuss the effects of culture change on mental health.

Students are requested to bring lunch to this meeting; coffee and tea will be served.

Dr. George Miller Gives Duff Lecture

The Medical Undergraduate Society is sponsoring the Sixth Annual Lyman Duff Memorial Lecture tomorrow night at 8:30 pm in Moyses Hall. This event commemorates the late Dean of the Faculty of Medicine.

The guest lecturer is Dr. George E. Miller, Professor of Medicine, and Director of Research in Medical Education at the University of Illinois College of Medicine. Dr. Miller is considered the most erudite author and lecturer in the field of Medical Education today. He is the principal author of the book "Teaching and Learning in Medical School."

Platform Party

Dr. Miller will be introduced by Dr. Lloyd Stevenson, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine. The platform party will also include Dr. H. Roche Robertson, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of the University; Dr. Cluny Macpherson, Registrar of the Newfoundland Medical Board, who will present the Roddick Memorial Scholarship; Dr. E.H. Bensley, Associate Dean of the Medical Faculty; Dr. S.M. Banfill, Assistant Dean of the Faculty; Robert P. Younes, President of the Medical Undergraduate Society, who will chair the program for the evening; and the Chairmen of all the Departments in the Faculty of Medicine.

The evening will also serve as the opportunity to present the prizes awarded on the results of the final examinations held in the first three years last June, and finally to introduce the University and National Scholars.

Male Wanted!

A student (male) with a flair for farce is required to play a bit part in Act III of the English Dept. production of "Dr. Knock." The part is that of a "snooty" servant and involves a lot of comic business. Applicants report today to Room 302, Peterson Hall, between 1 and 2 pm.

Montreal Science Fair To Be Held At McGill

This year, McGill will be host to the Montreal Science Fair, to be held in the Winter Stadium on April 19 and 20.

The Science Fair, which was held at the University of Montreal last year, is sponsored by the Chemical Institute of Canada and the Institute of Electrical Engineers. The sponsors with the help of the provincial government, supply the Fair with prizes and organize the setup, as well as securing judges to review the exhibits.

Many large commercial companies, such as DuPont Chemical Corporation, Canadian Industries Ltd., and Kodak contribute smaller prizes and scholarships and help to cover some of the Fair's expenses.

Two Sections

The Fair is open to all high school students or equivalent and is divided into two sections, group projects and single entries. These are then further sub-divided into the different Science Departments such as Math-Physics, Chemistry and Biology. The winner of the singles entry then goes on to the National Science Fair, which is held in Toronto on May 3.

First prize for this year's Fair will be a $500 scholarship to the University of Montreal last year, is sponsored by the Chemical Institute of Canada and the Institute of Electrical Engineers. The sponsors with the help of the provincial government, supply the Fair with prizes and organize the setup, as well as securing judges to review the exhibits.

Last year, the winning exhibit was a group project by two Loyola twelfth-grade students who entered a rocket display featuring a 10-foot model of a zinc and sulphur propelled amateur rocket with the accompanying payload.

William Pruitt Will Lecture On Mammals

Dr. William Pruitt, Jr. will address a meeting of the Biological Society today at 5 pm in Room 250 in the Biology Building. His topic is "The Ecology of Arctic Tundra Mammals", with slides from the Cape Thompson area.

Dr. Pruitt has devoted much time to the study of the ecology and behavioural adaptations of mammals to Arctic and Sub-Arctic environments. He is a graduate of Maryland and Michigan, has held research positions in Biology in Alaska from 1953-1961, and was senior biologist on the Co-op Caribou investigation of the Canadian Wildlife Service in 1957-58.

Tomorrow he will be showing a film on the barren-grounds caribou at 8:15 pm in Room 106, P.S.C.

Έτσι Έλληνική είμαι
by Susie Scott

One of the highlights of last Friday's mass exodus to Mont Habitant, was the annual IFC Ski Meet. The competition consisted of a Giant Slalom in which all undergraduate fraternities were eligible to participate. Each house was invited to enter five contestants in the race, and the average of the four best times was the determining factor in naming the champions. The leading fraternity was the Delta Upsilon house, who were also the runners up last year. Close behind were last year's best, the AD's, with the Dekes third, and honourable mention going to the KRTs, whose average time was just one second behind the third place Delta Kappa Epsilon group.

The best single time for the run was clocked by Mike Stanforth, a KA, who completed the course in 51.9 seconds. Second and third in the individual placings were Mike Stranger, a Psi U, and Colin Cooligan, a DU.

The weather was very cold and windy, but ski conditions were good, and there were no injuries whatsoever in the Interfraternity events. Mention should be given to Rick Kaufman, a ZBT, who by an unfortunate misunderstanding, was not timed correctly. He was allowed a rerun, but after waiting out the entire event in the sub-zero conditions, he was no longer at his best, and the second try was less successful.

Fourteen, out of a possible eighteen fraternities, entered a ski team in the event, but unfortunately only nine groups were able to finish the necessary four contestants, and none actually had five successful entrants. Incidentally, one man to be commended for his perseverance prefers to remain anonymous. He finished the course in 194 seconds.

The trophy, which will be in the DU house until the next meet at Winter Carnival 1964, was donated by the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity five years ago, is the John Semmelink Memorial Trophy.

Many thanks to Bill Eakin and Jamie Clark, AD's, who set up the slalom course, and to this year's manager, Al Chartrand.

Aquanauts In Crabtree Meet; Fare Well In Pan-Am Trials

by EARL HALTRECHT

The Redman Swim Team ran into some difficulty last Thursday night in the Crabtree Meet when they met fourteen members of the Canadian American Swim Association. However, three McGill representatives made quite a good showing at the Pan-American Trials over the weekend.

The Montreal All-star Swimmers, all members of the CASA, have made a habit of winning the Crab-

Basketballers In Important Doubleheader

Tonight marks the last City Intercollegiate Basketball League game of the season for the Redmen, who take on the Université de Montréal Carabins at the Currie Gym at 8:15 pm, immediately after the Junior Varsity Indians oppose the St. Joseph Teachers College squad in an encounter starting at 7 pm.

So far the Red and White hold an 8-0 city league record, and it looks as though 1962-63 will be another unbeaten year for the McGillians.

Heading the Redmen attack this season is the consistent playmaking and shooting of Captain Jack Walker, along with the dynamic, aggressive defensive work of Steve Chandler and Ian Monteith.

In facing the Carabins, Coach Ron Sharpe's club has to watch out for Martel and Benjamin, the two visitors who have provided the most trouble this year.

This is the last chance to see the Redmen in city league action this season, and with another undefeated year on the string for the McGillians, the game should definitely be worthwhile for all fans.

tree Trophy in the past, and repeated their performance again in the Currie Pool with a decisive victory of 65-30. Yet McGill's 30 points represents a lot of talent, remembering that they had to compete against swimmers such as Gold Medallist Dick Pound, Stan Pantovic, and others.

McGill clinched four firsts, one of them being a tie for the top spot. The big man seemed to be rookie swimmer Bill Peers, picking up two firsts, as well as one second, thereby gaining 13 points for the Red and White swimmers. Glen Rutter was the man who tied CASA's Gill in the 50 yard freestyle for first place with a time of 24.7 seconds. Diving champ Dave McEntyre came out on top again, beating John Montminy by a score of 152.9 to 133.1.

The greatest loss of points stems from the tough "all-or-nothing" point system in the relay events — seven for a win, nothing for a close second. McGill was unable to beat CASA in either relay events, the first team finishing 25.1 seconds after them in the 400 yard Medley Relay, while the team of Bob Mullins, Duncan Finlayson, Bob Tamilla, and Glen Rutter finished a scant 9.8 seconds behind the victors in the final event, the 400 yard freestyle relay.

During the weekend, Pan-American trials were being run simultaneously in Montreal and in Vancouver to decide the Canadian entries in the giant meet to be held in Brazil this summer. Two McGill swimmers entered, and didn't fare too poorly considering the extremely tough competition. Nils Vikander placed third in the 400 meter Individual Medley, fourth in the 100 meter breaststroke and third in the 200 meter breaststroke, with a time of 2:50.6. Bill Peers was able to grab three second places, swimming in the 400 meter Individual Medley, the 100 meter backstroke (time of 1:07.3) and in the 200 meter backstroke (time 2:30).

Redmen Harriers Pull Definite Coup In Carnival Relay

The third annual winter carnival relay was run last Friday with the McGill Harrier team placing first in the record time of 4 hours and 39 minutes. Led by Captain Bob Walkiw, McGill cut more than 11 minutes off last year's time. MacDonald College was a big surprise finishing second, about ten minutes behind McGill, with University of Montreal, who placed second last year, a close third.

According to the rules, a team consists of 4 to 6 men, to run the 48 mile distance from Montreal to Mont Habitant.

The race began at 8 am with near zero temperatures at the start. There was also a strong head wind producing frozen faces. MacDonald's team using short intervals of about a quarter-mile, opened an early lead, which they held for over 30 consecutive miles. At times the gap stretched to more than 500 yards.

Early in the race McGill's runners were covering over a mile each, but coach Pete Adams progressively shortened the interval to avoid losing contact with the MacDonald team. Finally, less than five miles from Piedmont, Louis Sanchini put McGill into the lead, which was held for the remainder of the race.

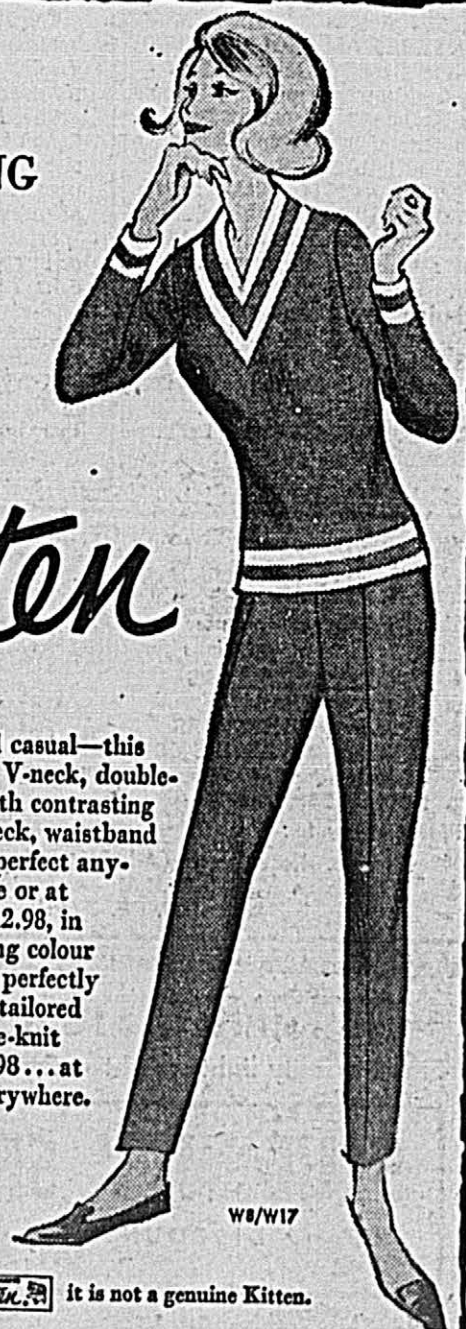

The race was unusually close for such a long distance. The University of Montreal team had fallen nearly a mile behind the leaders at one point, but with a particularly strong effort over the last three miles, their lead runner finished only twenty feet behind the Aggie leader.
